GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream system.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on non-riparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914, new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State. Appropriative rights can be granted to waters "foreign" to the natural stream system.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users as set forth in Water Code section 5100 with specific exceptions. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversions, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include: (1) Statements of Water Diversion and Use, (2) Information Pertaining to Water Rights in California, and (3) Appropriation of Water in California.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Behr:

LICENSE 8256 (APPLICATION 20420) AND STATEMENT NO. 8363 DYCK CREEK TRIBUTARY TO JACK CREEK IN SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY

We have received the Notice of Assignment Form signed March 14, 1998 by the previous owners, Richard J. Peet and Evelyn M. Peet, transferring the interest in the above-referenced water rights to you.

Accordingly, we will update our records to show the ownership of the water rights covered by License 8256 and Statement No. 8363 as follows:

Christopher L. Behr
and Linda Behr
1363 Foothill Blvd., Suite 1
La Canada, CA 91011
(818) 952-2516

As requested, we will mail any correspondence to your business address listed above, rather than the property address.

There are no fees required to update the ownership of the water right. I had previously provided you copies of License 8256 and Statement No. 8363 in February 1998. Please let me know if you need additional copies.

An appropriative water right can be reduced or revoked after five years of nonuse, or due to noncompliance with license terms and conditions. To track the status and actual water use under the terms and conditions of the license, we distribute a pre-printed form, "Report of Licensee", on three-year intervals. In early 1999, we will mail a Report form to you to summarize your water use for the three-year interval ending in 1998.

If you have any questions, please write or telephone me at the above number.

Sincerely,

Ronald M. Duff

GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, or return flows from use of groundwater.

An appropriate right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914 new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversion, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include:
